

A look at my career as a Researcher, Teacher and Mentor over Twenty Five Years and some Good Strategies for Navigating College

Dr Steven B Damelin<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> The American Mathematical Society

Michigan Research Community (MRC), University of Michigan,
January 2017

My beginnings—Johannesburg, South Africa.

University of the Witwatersrand and my Graduate Education: How did I choose the subject of my PhD and how to choose a PhD advisor—how mine changed my life.

My move to the United States, challenges and some advice.

My first jobs and how I obtained them.

My path as a researcher. Some changing experiences.

Homepage: <http://www.umich.edu/~damelin>

Institute for Mathematics and its Applications: <http://www.ima.umn.edu>

The American Mathematical Society: <http://www.ams.org>

My path as a teacher. A Good teacher can change your life, a bad teacher can also change your life.

My path as a mentor.

My current work at the American Mathematical Society.

My current work at the University of Michigan.

My current research and students.

Good Strategies for Navigating College.

Questions and discussion. Homepage: <http://www.umich.edu/~damelin>, email: sbd@ams.org, email: damelin@umich.edu