( )a. Harry doesn’t believe that I ever flunked anyone.
    b. That I ever flunked anyone, Harry doesn’t believe.
    c. Harry doesn’t believe that anyone did I ever flunk.
    d. Harry doesn’t believe that ever did anyone flunk.
    e. *That anyone did I ever flunk, Harry doesn’t believe.
    f. *That ever did anyone flunk, Harry doesn’t believe.
    g. *Nobody believes that anyone did he ever flunk.

Conclusion: stand alone ANYONE in neg-fronted position is ONLY possible if it had negative which is sucked upstairs by NEG Raising.

( )a. That I ever flunked her was not proven.
    b. That I ever flunked her was impossible to prove/too silly to even try to prove.

Why is this ok, final 2/1-quace downstairs/2/1 upstairs when e.g.:

( )a. Herb didn’t mention to me that he ever flunked her.
    b. *Herb didn’t mention it to me that he ever flunked her.
    2/final 3
    c. *Herb didn’t give it much thought that I ever flunked her.
    d. *That I ever flunked her was not given much thought.

( )a. *(Your) ever meeting her didn’t interest Geoff.
    b. *Geoff was not interested by (your) ever meeting her.
    c. Geoff was not interested in ever meeting her.
    d. *Ever meeting her, Geoff was not interested in.

IN C MAYBE 2/FINAL 5 (BUT THEN SHOULD BE ISLAND AN ISN’T: ok How long are you interested in staying there/standing on your head.
This would suggest it should be 9, as with capable, but there is no possible subject raising analysis…what analysis could make complement a 9. Other adj which work the same include concern, does complement of capable topicalize, rendering raising story a crock???

Living in texas, I am no longer capable of ………. (*ever) Living in texas I am not capable of

But note:

That, I am not capable of ………….indicates a non-raising analysis.

Same then for interested in:

That, I am not interested in.
