

Noah Smith

November 2011

Contact

Department of Economics
University of Michigan
611 Tappan Street
Ann Arbor, MI 48109

Email: nquixote@umich.edu

Phone: 310-622-5693

Website: <http://www-personal.umich.edu/~nquixote/>

Education

Ph.D. Economics. University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, 2006- present

B.S. Physics, with distinction. Stanford University, January 2003

Research Interests

Experimental Finance

Behavioral Finance

Macroeconomics

Research

“Individual Trader Behavior in Experimental Asset Markets,” Job Market Paper.

“Affect and Expectations: Evidence from the Survey of Consumers,” with Robert Barsky and Miles Kimball.

Work in Progress

“Private Information and Overconfidence in Financial Markets: An Experimental Investigation,” (in progress).

“An Asset Market Experiment with Knightian Uncertainty,” with Yuki Kohsaka and Yoshiro Tsutsui (in progress).

Teaching

Lecturer:

Econ 102: Principles of Macroeconomics, Summer 2010

Graduate Student Instructor:

Econ 102: Principles of Macroeconomics for Miles Kimball, Fall 2009

Econ 102: Principles of Macroeconomics for Adam Stevenson, Winter 2010

Awards

Rackham International Research Award, University of Michigan, 2011

Center for Japanese Studies Summer Fellowship, University of Michigan, 2011

Rackham Graduate Student Research Grant, University of Michigan, 2011

Sasakawa Fellowship, 2006-2008

Presentations

Finance Brown Bag Seminar, University of Michigan, October 2011

Macro Lunch Seminar, University of Michigan, September 2011

Princeton Data Improvement Initiative, Princeton University, with Miles Kimball and Robert Barsky, October 2008

Other

Institute for New Economic Thinking Task Force (panel discussant), New York, November 2011

Blogger, "Noahpinion" (<http://noahpinionblog.blogspot.com>)