

Working With You to End Marijuana Prohibition

The Signers

THE PURPOSE OF THIS SITE is to make available a place for everyone who supports the idea of Nojailforpot to sign his name to this idea, and make it proudly public for everyone to see. When enough people sign this petition, the resulting political force will compel the laws to change: there are nearly ONE MILLION PEOPLE IN JAIL in the United States for NON-VIOLENT ACTIVITIES related to the use, possession, cultivation, transportation or sale of marijuana.

If you're not actively involved in getting what you want, you don't really want it.

-Peter McWilliams

The people below have taken the significant step of putting their names to this important declaration, for all the country to see. There are currently 8102 signers.

The Declaration
I accept and declare to the world my support for the idea that no one in the United States of America be in prison for any non-violent
activity related to the use,
possession,
cultivation,
transportation or
sale of hemp /
marijuana.

man, this whole thing is stupid, some people go to jail for 30 years, no one was hurt, but they had some pot. this needs to stop! FREEDOM!

Marijuana laws do far more harm than maijuana itself. Not only does drug enforcement cost ridiculous sums of money it imprisons people for experimenting. The government has been spouting lies about marijuana for the past 70 years the lies must stop.

Please, Take a second and think of how many americans are dying from the use of alchohol and ciggerettes....now compare that to the deaths of marijuana Thank you Legilize it

Yes. If someone wants to smoke a little pot, let them. It should be legal, but closely monitored so that you can have a little fun, but not fuck yourself up. Later.

All consensual crimes ("victimless crimes") shouldn't be crimes, nor should our society accept any kind of morals into legislation
