A random review of the league scoring has found that gross violations exist within the statisticians department. This may be partly related to the union strike or the use of drugs among employees. As evidence, needle parts have been found in the company shredder and the cockroaches have doubled in size in the past 2 months. In either case, the resulting aftershock is that team scores have been incorrectly, and perhaps purposefully, adulterated. Please see the attached, computer analysis scoring summary to see what changes may have occurred with your score. Please note that there was a documented 50% error rate under the old, manual system.

Also, a reminder: please submit your team name with your scoring sheets next week. Consideration will be given to those which are most lude, crude, or lascivious or are named after miscellaneous animal parts (just kidding). Remember, this is a PG-13 league. Originality scores big and, if your name is chosen as the most appropriate name for an NFL franchise from the city of Remus, Michigan you will be the winner of a bonus point to your score (pending vote among the team owners).
